For HEERF II, PQC relied on the guidance provided by the US Department of Education (updated faqs heerf II) to identify eligible students. For HEERF III, PQC relied on the guidance provided by the US Department of Education (updated fags heerf III) to identify eligible students. 7. Any instructions, directions, or guidance provided by the institution to students concerning the Emergency Financial Aid Grants.

Paul Quinn College sent CARES Funding communication to students via their official email accounts, through posted info on the school's website, and through individual conversations between students and staff. An email address (PQCCares@pqc.edu) was created to allow students to more easily submit questions to the group of staff members involved in the CARES Funding process. This included staff from the Financial Aid Office, the Bursar, and the members of the institutional committee. The group email address added to the College's ability respond to students' questions and concerns promptly and accurately.

Students who did not have current banking information on file with the College were directed to log in to CANVAS to complete and submit the banking info form via CANVAS. The information was then retrieved by Business Office staff. CANVAS provided a secure site for sensitive information to be shared behind the student's log-in. Students were repeatedly reminded NOT to email their banking information to anyone, ever.

Students who preferred to have their funds mailed, confirmed their mailing addresses electronically or by contacting the Business Office directly. PQC students who are not eligible for the CARES Funding received written information, sent via PQC email, with details on their specific status.
